NightRays awarded a national teleradiology agreement by the Premier healthcare alliance

November 10, 2009, Bellaire, Texas – NightRays, a privately held, Texas-based provider of teleradiology services and technology, is proud to announce that, after an extensive evaluation process, it has been awarded a 36-month contract for its teleradiology services with Premier Purchasing Partners, L.P.

“We are very pleased to be a Premier contracted supplier. Entering into this relationship with Premier is a major step forward in introducing our high quality technology and after-hours radiology services to Premier’s 2,200 member hospitals as well as its other facilities using imaging,” says Dr. Greg Rose, NightRays’ president and chief executive officer.

NightRays provides 24/7 teleradiology services with options for preliminary or final reads and full general radiology to include subspecialty reads including MSK, Neuro, Peds, Nucs, Mammography, CCTA, Breast MR, and Echocardiography. NightRays also provides such technical services as RIS, Archiving, voice recognition dictation, and image viewing. NightRays provides phone support for all of its products.

In light of the large anticipated influx of clients and cases over the next year, NightRays is actively recruiting fellowship trained teleradiologists from around the country. Applicants are requested to send updated resumes to radiologycareers@nightrays.com. NightRays will be interviewing potential candidates from this pool of applications at its RSNA booth (#6065) this year in Chicago.
